Newark Kept Home, No Police, Firemen

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — A six-hour curfew went into effect at midnight in this city of 400,000 because of a day-long sick call campaign which kept half the city's police and firemen off their jobs.

The men began returning to work late in the day after the city obtained a court order directing them back to their jobs.

Authority Challenge

Commonwealth Firm Sues Receiver-Boss

VANCOUVER (CP) — A law was issued a writ Friday for damages against A. D. Peter Stanley, court-appointed receiver of the Commonwealth group of companies.

The writ alleges that Mr. Stanley overstepped his authority.

Issued by lawyer Graham McKenzie, the writ claims general damages and repayment of losses claimed by one of the companies because of Mr. Stanley's actions.

Mr. Stanley was appointed receiver and manager of five companies in the Commonwealth group last month at the request of the B.C. Securities Commission.

One of the five was Diversified Income Securities Series A and B. Mr. McKenzie, in his writ, alleged that Mr. Stanley, without authority, extended this to include Diversified Income Securities Ltd.

Mr. McKenzie alleged that Series A and B are merely the assets purchased by trust fund investors, while DIS Ltd. administers A and B but is neither a parent company nor owner of

MINISTER PLEASED

In Victoria, Education Minister Donald Brothers said he was pleased to learn that the majority of students wished to continue at the university.

"I don't feel a strike could have settled anything," the minister said. "I'm sure the legitimate complaints of students will be dealt with by the university."

Mr. Brothers was asked whether he regarded the request that authorities drop charges against 114 persons who took part in a campus sit-in last week as one of the student's legitimate complaints. He replied: "They have been charged before the

COLONIST 500 FUND

Little Girls, Big Hearts Pure Silver

By DON COLLINS

Chances are you wouldn't be excited if someone showed you a stack of dimes and nickels adding up to less than $3. To be exact, the amount is $2.95 and it is something to get excited about.

For it is more than silver. It is heart. And where do you find more heart than among a group of children who suddenly decide to do something worthwhile for someone else — someone less fortunate?

Such a group is the First Tillicum Brownie Pack which came all the way to The Colonist Friday with $2.95 — no more, no less — to do what it could for the Colonist 500 Fund.

The amount represents the collection the little girls took among themselves because they had heard all about the Greater Victoria families who might not have a very nice Christmas. And they wanted to do something to help out.

* * *

They can rest assured their $2.95 will help out — will bring a smile to the face of some child who may otherwise have an empty Christmas Day.

The money turned in by the Brownies, along with all the other donations, is distributed to 500 families selected by the Christmas Bureau.

'Privacy' Short-Lived at the Nicholsons

Chant

The provincial government Friday ordered removal of a sign which proclaimed Government House was a private residence and therefore closed to the public.

Works Minister W. N. Chant said the sign put up and worded at the request of Lt.-Governor John Nicholson is "highly incorrect."

It was removed Friday afternoon shortly after Premier Bennett and others high up in government were made aware of its existence. The sign said: "Private residence of lieutenant-governor, closed to public."

Asked whether he agreed with the wording of the sign, Mr. Bennett told reporters: "It

'Private' sign on Government House

(Government House) is a provincial government building for the official use of the lieutenant-governor."

The premier refused to answer any further questions, saying he had made a "straightforward comment" on the situation.

* * *

A spokesman for the public works department said the sign had apparently been put up since the incumbent arrived.

Mr. Nicholson was not immediately available for comment because he and Mrs. Nicholson are accompanying Governor-General Roland Michener on his tour of the lower Mainland. They are expected to return Wednesday.

Seven Ingredients Needed To Provide Balanced Diet

By G. T. THOSTERSON, MD

There are very few valid excuses for not eating a balanced diet, and thus getting all the vitamins a person needs.

But I'd like to emphasize that a balanced diet does more than provide vitamins. Adequate protein is necessary for health and strength at any age, and you can't substitute starch, foods for protein without suffering for it.

The protein foods are, mainly, lean meat of all kinds, fish and other seafoods, eggs, cheese.

Nuts are fairly high in protein.

Milk has some. In general, fruits and vegetables, while some may have a little protein, don't have much. There is no protein in sugar or starch.

So pay attention to protein as well as vitamins.

Traces of many minerals are necessary, but an average variety of food, fruits, and vegetables, as well as others, will provide the needed traces.

Calcium, however, is a bit different. Milk is rich in meat or cereals, but try to

Saigon Plan Complicated

PARIS (Reuters) — South Vietnam's delegation to the Paris peace talks will submit an elaborate peace plan to the conference, its representatives here said Friday.

The plan calls for an early ceasefire, said Nguyen Van An, acting chief of the South Vietnamese observer mission.

But Saigon was skeptical about the chances of such a ceasefire. Up to now Hanoi had shown no goodwill in response to the bombing halt.

An said his government seeks a real peace, enduring and effective, with international guarantees.

Ceasefire 'Insolent'

PARIS (UPI) — The Viet Cong Friday rejected as "insolent" a U.S. demand to stop the fighting in Vietnam and said it would ignore the presence of South Vietnam at the Paris conference table.

U.S. sources said it was "highly unlikely" the expanded talks could get under way next week, as had been hoped.

Terrorist Stepup Ordered

HONG KONG (AP) — The Viet Cong Friday ordered a new guerrilla and terrorist offensive against American and South Vietnamese units and officials.

Issued in the name of the military high command of the Viet Cong's liberation armed forces, the order was beamed to South Vietnam by Radio Hanoi and monitored in Hong Kong.

It called for a guerrilla and terrorist campaign to "seek out, eliminate, and utterly destroy."

• South Vietnamese pacification teams working in rural farm and village areas.

• American and combined American-South Vietnamese search-and-destroy units which had been moving deeper afield and "destroying our villages and occupying our areas."

Desist or Depart

THE PUBLIC, INCREASINGLY impatient with university sit-ins, teach-ins and all the rest of the time-consuming campus convulsions, would be interested to hear by what devious reasoning the student militants at Simon Fraser, or anywhere else, assume they have a right to strike.

They have the right to boycott, no doubt, for that is a matter for individual decision. There used to be a rule, of course, that an undergraduate was obliged to attend a given number of lectures or automatically fail his term.

In these permissive days, no doubt, he can escape such discipline.

But on what grounds, it may be asked, does any student group assume the right to strike a university, form picket lines and thereby prevent instruction for those who want it? By what right does even a majority, in these circumstances, dare to dictate to classmates? This is a distortion of democracy.

Students who are dissatisfied with the rules of the university, with the curriculum or the instruction, are not obliged to submit to them. They have the right to protest and to pursue reforms by discussion with the administration.

But they do not have the right to attempt to win their point by coercion, by threat or by ultimatum. That is what they are doing, or trying to do, at Simon Fraser.

And if they cannot win the adjustments they desire by negotiation, there is nothing to prevent their choosing some other seat of learning — if learning is their object.

It is increasingly evident, however, that for many of the campus politicians a formal education is the last thing that interests them. They are there to embarrass the administration and disrupt the normal procedures, and no matter if they accomplished all their current aims, they would find new excuses for protest and revolt.

They might well adopt for their own that old McGill song, rendered on more boisterous occasions, and which closed:

"... It was not for knowledge
That we came to college
But to raise hell all the year."

A publicly-supported university is not the place for such people. Let them desist or let them depart, so that the serious students can get on with the business of learning and the authority with the responsibility of instruction.

Why?

AFTER NEARLY SIX months of dithering Ottawa has finally named two men to take over the top management job of Air Canada, a position which for some 20 years had been held by Gordon R. McGregor and which fell vacant on his retirement last May.

That the choice of his successors was based on political considerations there can be little doubt, for though all Air Canada's top-level appointments are made by its board of directors, the government in fact makes the selection and then passes its nominations to the board for formal action.

Both Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and Transport Minister Paul Hellyer were closely involved in reaching the final decision which, among other things, completely ignored the former president's recommendation that he be succeeded by Air Canada's executive-vice-president H. W. Seagrim, whom Mr. McGregor had personally spent his last four years in office preparing for the job.

The citizens of this country as well as the personnel of Air Canada are entitled to at least some kind of explanation as to why a man of Mr. Seagrim's high qualifications who has been successfully running the national airline on a mind-the-store basis for the government for nearly half a year was rejected in favor of Mr. Hellyer's deputy minister and an obscure Quebec lawyer.

Driving Lessons

AS A VERY EFFECTIVE introduction to Safe Driving Week, December 1 to 7, the weekly Maritime Command (Pacific) Lookout came up with some interesting facts and figures recently.

Among other things it listed the ten most important things for safe drivers to remember to protect themselves and their passengers. While the message was for its readership of service men in particular, it is of every bit as much importance to any other driver.

Keep both hands on the wheel and eyes on the road.

Don't tailgate.

Slow for curves and watch for approaching traffic.

Never pass on hills or curves.

Have regular checks on brakes, tires, steering, suspension, lights and signals.

Lock doors and fasten safety belts.

For every one-and-a-half ounces of liquor consumed allow an hour-and-a-half before driving.

These are some of the recommendations.

But along with these was an article explaining how pre-school children in Russia are taught traffic rules and safety, by the use of pedlar cars and tricycles on the streets of miniature towns.

Here are paved roads and bridges, traffic lights, crossroads, one-way streets—the lot. The little learners are instructed in driver and pedestrian groups, and some are chosen to act as traffic officers and first aid helpers.

Violations deprive a child of driving rights. He is reduced to the ranks, so to speak, and must be a pedestrian until his turn comes to get behind the wheel again.

It sounds like an interesting experiment, and there can be no doubt of its popularity.

It recommends itself for serious study here, and The Lookout is to be congratulated in bringing the matter to public attention, as well as for its timely safe driving advice.

Case for Collective Effort

Faith and Hope Without Sound Buttresses No Guarantee for Continuing Security

By LUBOR J. ZINK from Ottawa

PEOPLE who have made up their minds that money spent on our contribution to collective defence is money wasted fall broadly speaking, into four categories:

Those who regardless of any amount of evidence to the contrary, do not believe that there is an external threat to our security;

Those who believe that if there is such a threat it should be answered by unilateral disarmament;

Those who consider our sooty to be rotten to the core and therefore not worth defending;

Those who say that we are safe and secure no matter what we do because the U.S. cannot afford not to defend Canada. So why waste money on contributing to collective defence?

People in the last category are hard-boiled cynics, but they are at least honest about their cynicism which relies on the imperatives of continental defence and seeks to exploit them politically and economically on the domestic scene. They don't pretend to be imperialists whose sacred mission is to impose their views and policies on everybody.

Not so the zealots of the other three categories who are convinced that they are the only true apostles of peace.

There is no way of convincing these people that their various brands of pacifism or revolutionary nihilism are self-defeating. No argument will convince them because there is no absolute proof of the peacekeeping efficacy of collective defence and institutional reform.

The only way to prove that collective defence measures, such as those maintained by the members of the Atlantic alliance, do prevent a major war, is to dismantle them or reduce them to the point where the aggressive forces would strike in the belief their superiority assures them an easy victory.

By then, of course, realization of the need to maintain an effective deterrent to war would be useless.

It's like preventive medicine. Its value cannot be proved unless its very success breeds complacency and neglect to the point where a preventable epidemic strikes.

There is not absolute proof that the setting up of NATO in 1949 was a timely and necessary war-preventive measure. All we know is that the aggressive momentum of Soviet imperialism stopped in Central Europe along the line of NATO's forward defense forces. Was it coincidence?

The pacifists may believe it was, but a more likely explanation is that peace was preserved by the threat of the disaster written by a generation of "squares" and "warmongers."

They believe that they can revolutionize the world with flower power and pot-smoking bibles, which to them is the epitome of freedom. And if the Communists don't join the love-in, so what? Let them do their own thing and take over if that is what they want. Who cares?

So who needs NATO?

I may have somewhat simplified the "philosophy" of our young anarchists, but that is what it essentially amounts to. It rests on blissful ignorance or grotesque misconceptions of the harsh realities of the world we live in. To the "altered" young the lesson of the disaster of the Second World War, which followed the collapse of the collective security system of the Western democracies, is a stupid joke.

Speaking in Brussels, the leader of the Canadian parliamentary delegation to the North Atlantic assembly, Liberal Senator John Aird, touched on this problem when he said: "... every passing year produces an ever-growing proportion of our people who ... have little real awareness of the dangers posed by Russian expansion."

"In Canada, nearly 50 per cent of the population has been born since the end of the last war. Probably only a very small percentage has much understanding of the threat presented by communism since that time."

Sen. Aird urged a massive information campaign that would explain the continued need for a strong NATO and point out the folly and immorality of striking a fair share of the burden of collective defence.

I hope the senator won't be run off by the predictable ridicule of such a campaign and by the equally predictable cold shoulder he will get from the peaceniks in the mass media.

Perhaps he could usefully start the project by concentrating on his behalf, though not-so-young, colleagues in the Grit caucus.

Canada's NATO Ambassador Was Ashamed

At Government Downgrading of Defence

S Prime Minister Trudeau says Canada could get out of NATO next year "if we feel like it."

And that whirling dervish of his cabinet, Postmaster General Eric Kierans, that remarkable man with the blazing ice-blue eyes, says he looks forward to the day when Canadians will be known more for helping others through foreign aid than being able to help themselves in case of foreign attack.

Amid all the not-so-delicate hints of the government's wistfully wishing to bug out of NATO, and spend on almost anything more willingly than on self-defence, it was reassuring to know that not everybody in the Canadian parliamentary delegation to the Brussels conference of the North Atlantic Alliance talked chicken.

Some, at least one, Conservative MP George Muir of Manitoba's Lisgar constituency, talked turkey.

In Parliament nearly nine years, he is no MP come-lately, and while he may be a sunflower farmer — yes, that's actually what he is, a seed grower — and no self-appointed instant-expert on defence, he is a man of honor.

And as a man of honor, he has said publicly what Canada's NATO Ambassador Ross Campbell whispered privately — that the Canadian performance at the Brussels conference was nothing less than disgraceful.

Those who were there made no secret of it that Ambassador

Campbell went much further than that — far enough that he told many of them that for the first time in his life: "I am ashamed of being a Canadian."

The MP members of the Canadian delegation — including some of the Liberals — came back home "sick at heart," as one of them put it, over the threatened sacrifice of defence for foreign aid.

Of course talk like that was wildly out of line with the official Canadian government position of downgrading defence and discounting any urgent need to beef up the Alliance even in the shadow of the Soviet occupation of Czechoslovakia.

Then George Muir, speaking he emphasized, not for the Canadian government, but as an opposition MP for his prairie constituency, put the finger squarely on the Trudeau administration.

"There is a school of thought in Canada that includes members of the government that we should cut back on the NATO Alliance ... with the consequent saving of money and commitment."

To do this, he told the NATO

parliamentarians, would be to bug out of Canada's tradition of playing a role in the world and honorable part as a free and civilized part in the defence of liberty and freedom of western society.

The government's NATO delegation apparently was listening and very aware that Canada's allies were hearing George Muir's warning too, for at the last minute the reluctant decision was made to cut nothing back — not until next year, anyway.

But at best, it has turned out to be a very dicey decision that Prime Minister Trudeau has cautioned publicly could be completely reversed next year.

The idea seems to be to save money, to strip and starve the defence department ... and for what?

To beef up pensions of retired civil servants some of whom pinch along on as little as $20 monthly? To pump funds into housing, airport expansion, hospital or university grants, or other good works for the government's promised "Just Society"?

For better floor prices for fishermen, farmers or aid to Indians and Eskimos? For anything for Canadians whose taxes pay for it?

To do this, he told the NATO

parliamentarians, would be to bug out of Canada's tradition of playing a role in the world and honorable part as a free and civilized part in the defence of liberty and freedom of western society.

The government's NATO delegation apparently was listening and very aware that Canada's allies were hearing George Muir's warning too, for at the last minute the reluctant decision was made to cut nothing back — not until next year, anyway.

The compromise, viewed as a very reasonable one by impartial observers, served as a convenient excuse to take power.

One of the military's first acts upon assuming power was to annul the Belaunde government's agreement with IPC.

This was followed by a military takeover of IPC's installations

IPC insists the back taxes and debts owed the Peruvian government are fictitious of the imagination.

The Kid Is King, At Home, on Campus

By FRANK LOWE

A READER recently sent along an item about the man in Shepperton, England, who smashed and burned his television set.

The item said the incident had its start when Tom Leonard walked into his living room and his four-year-old daughter said: "Shut up, Daddy, I'm watching TV."

Leonard, the item reports, took the television cabinet in his hands and tore out the insides. He smashed the tubes. He crushed the cabinet into splinters.

Then he picked up the pieces and carried them into his backyard where he set fire to the whole mass.

The news item reported that many of his neighbors cheered.

This item impressed me, because the implication was that Leonard got away with his act of violence. And even more in the estimation of his neighbors.

Here, I am afraid, Leonard would not have fared so well.

In this country, a father who reacted like that merely because his small daughter told him to "shut up" would be reported to the police by his neighbors.

He would then be lectured by a judge, ordered to post a bond for $500 guaranteeing to keep the peace, and told to buy a new television set so his daughter would not be deprived.

Waste-more-land Generates Some Comic Relief

CP, from Montreal

Some comic relief spread among hundreds of delegates registering for the Hemispheric Conference to End the Vietnam War.

Tom Dunphy, who described himself as an American anti-war activist, showed up dressed in a mock military uniform, complete with model warplanes on epaulets and ribbon-covered chest, and announced his name as Gen. Waste-more-land.

Carrying a bulging briefcase marked "top secret," Dunphy played out his parody of U.S. Gen. William Westmoreland by appealing to students, delegates and reporters to volunteer for his "non-army."

"I've wasted more land and destroyed more rice paddies than anyone else in the history of war," he said.

Then he made a belt-level gesture which he called his "navel" salute, and added:

"I have a bill in the House of Representatives to make it illegal for young men to go to war unless accompanied by their parents. My slogan for the bill is: 'The family that goes to war together dies together.'

Dunphy did not disclose his hometown. Meanwhile, pickets marched outside the conference registration headquarters handing out leaflets and selling little red books they described as Thoughts of Chairman Mao.

In the leaflets they accused conference organizers of being "lame" socialists and revisionists who had strayed from the faith.

The International Confederation for Disarmament, with headquarters in London, also issued a statement criticizing conference organizers for cancelling a speaking invitation to Alfred Hessler, executive director of the Fellowship of Reconciliation in the U.S.

He was to speak "about the need for a profound analysis of international power politics" with criticism of both Soviet and American imperialism.

The statement said:

"He was going to draw the conference's attention to the recent Soviet aggression against Czechoslovakia and request the participants to condemn this action. Apparently the organizing committee of the hemispheric conference thought that the criticism of Soviet policy cannot be tolerated at its Montreal gathering."

Overhaul Side Winning

Trudeau Cabinet Divides Over Reform of Senate

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — A deep split is developing in the Trudeau cabinet over reform of the Senate.

One faction, which seems to be winning, wants major overhaul, including provincial appointments and more work and power for the Senators.

This is linked to a clear understanding, in Ottawa and the provincial capitals, that appointments will be less political as well as more functional.

A second faction opposes what they see as a threat to be elected power of the Commons from a stronger, non-elected Senate.

The clash has nothing to do with the system of appointments. There seems general support, in the cabinet and everywhere else, that appointments can no longer be based only on party service.

The opposing faction really sees the Senate continuing as a debating society, with less participation.

It does not want the Senate to compete with the Commons, and the argument is made that, constitutionally, the Senate cannot have more power to block bills approved by the people's elected representatives in the Commons.

Whatever the outcome, the Senate is not going to become an elected chamber.

The government's proposals, when finally cleared by the cabinet, will be ready for presentation to the federal-provincial constitution conference in Ottawa next month.

The continuing committee of federal-provincial civil servants, set up at the February constitutional conference, has been working on the problems of the Senate and the Supreme court.

Quebec sees the Supreme Court evolving into a constitutional court, built to decide the problems of a new constitution, which may be a reality within five years.

At the February conference, former prime minister Pearson opened up the road to major constitutional reform, mentioning the Senate and Supreme Court as areas for debate, and indicated he was not opposed to a new constitution.

Since then a great deal of work has been done by the federal-provincial committee, in almost total secrecy.

Smoking Bills Under Study

CP, from Ottawa

Four bills dealing with the smoking habit were removed from the Commons order paper Friday by all-party consent and their subject matter referred to the Commons Committee on health and welfare.

Three of the bills were proposed by Barry Mather (NDP-Surrey). These would control or prohibit TV and radio advertising of cigarettes, require ingredients to be listed on tobacco products' labels and extend provisions of the Food and Drug Act to include tobacco products.

In other Commons business, Opposition Leader Stanfield said Finance Minister Benson had shown unbelievable arrogance in failing to bring in a new inheritance and gift tax bill quickly.

Mr. Stanfield said indications are that the promised bill will not be introduced until mid-January.

The question of whether or not Canada will join the Organization of American States remains unresolved after a month-long tour of nine Latin American countries, External Affairs Minister Sharp said.

Black Panthers Trigger Montreal Chaos

Antiwar Factions Fight

CP, from Montreal

The Hemispheric Conference to End the Vietnam War broke into chaos for about 15 minutes Friday when a group of Black Panthers, a militant Negro group from California, pushed its way past conference organizers and attempted to address the delegates.

Two brief scuffles broke out as Panthers and persons opposed to their speaking filled the choir and pulpit areas of the church where the conference was taking place.

After about 15 minutes of shouting and chanting, sessions chairman Glenroy Straughan, leader of the People's Progressive Party of Barbados, managed to quieten the crowd and said he had decided to let "the people who feel so strongly about this speak."

Hal Marcer, the Panther speaker, accused conference organizer Edward Martin Sloane of racism and trickery in advertising that Panther chairman Bobby Seale would attend.

Marcer said Seale had been promised enough money to attend the conference but conference organizers "didn't come through."

Sloane later said Seale had not been promised air fare to Montreal from California. Conference organizers had promised to try and raise the fare when Seale said he did not have it himself.

Sloane also said Seale could have come to Montreal on a charter flight with other delegates from his area but refused.

Seale also demanded $1,200 for the fare, because he required two other Panthers as bodyguards.

Panthers earlier had collected $600 by passing hats among the delegates.

Earlier Friday, the conference was disrupted when a white radical group of about 300 delegates demanded to be heard.

Session chairman Laurier LaPierre, conference organizer, pounded his shoe on the podium trying to restore order as the white radicals called for "a more democratic conference structure."

A statement by the radicals said the conference "had been organized in an undemocratic manner in order to present militant and dissident opinions from being represented and expressed."

At the opening of the conference, Hoang Minh Giang, North Vietnamese minister of culture, said the United States violates the basic norms of international conduct by waging a war of destruction against his country.

He said the U.S. has bombed cities, hospitals, dikes, dams and shrines in North Vietnam. According to U.S. figures, 2,587,000 tons of bombs had been dropped on the north — more than the total amount of bombs used in the Second World War.

The North Vietnamese minister said world public opinion and opposition within the U.S. forced President Johnson to stop the bombing unconditionally. This was a great victory for the Vietnamese people and for people the world over, including those of the United States.

But the U.S. was still determined to pursue its imperialistic policies, he said. U.S. aircraft were still violating North Vietnam air space and the U.S. had declared it will continue espionage against the North by any means necessary.

A conference spokesman said registration of delegates indicates attendance will be more than the expected 2,000 delegates but said figures on registrations Thursday night and Friday morning were not available.

A church in which Friday's session was held was about three-quarters filled. It was a capacity of 2,000 persons.

Giang, whose speech was followed by rhythmic clapping and chanting of "Ho, Ho, Ho Chi Minh," said the Vietnamese will not stop fighting until they can achieve "real peace in independence and freedom."

Peace depends on U.S. forces leaving Vietnam, allowing the South Vietnamese to settle their own problems according to National Liberation Front political programs, he said.

The fact the Saigon administration has been accepted at the Paris peace talks did not mean Giang's government recognized it.

Giang said his country has benefited from the efforts of peace-loving people everywhere in the world and especially in the Western Hemisphere. Thousands of Americans, too, had been loyal to their country's tradition of justice in opposing the war.

The North Vietnamese delegation arrived in Montreal Tuesday night and a delegation from the South Vietnamese National Liberation Front was expected before the conference ends.

South Vietnam is not attending. Rabbi Abraham Feinberg, of Toronto, a U.S. citizen and rabbi emeritus of Holy Blossom Synagogue in Toronto, told the conference that the real enemy of peace is a system of dehumanization which reduces youth to draft card numbers and peasants and workers to casualties on a television screen.

It was up the "revolutionary, radical and revolutionary youth of America to carry on opposition to the war.

Feinberg visited North Vietnam in 1967. He is the author of a book called "Hanoi Diary."

Price Freezes Included In French Franc Aid

PARIS (AP) — The French government Friday decreed price controls, including new price controls, including outright freezes, aimed at reducing pressure on the franc.

The strongest move yet against feared inflation, the new controls supplement existing rules, thus putting most of France's economic activities under one kind of control or another.

France's battle to save the franc already has been damaged by inflation, 1.05 per cent from September to October alone.

SLIDING SCALE.

Under France's sliding-scale rules, each cost-of-living index increase, over a small minimum, is translated into equivalent wage increases for about 2,000,000 members of the 16,000,000 labor force.

It was feared the index would surpass the 5-per-cent limit set by the government for 1968. By the end of October, it was up 4.7 per cent.

The widest measure announced Friday by the ministry of the economy was a freeze on all prices in the service sector for firms which lack "contract programs" with the government.

SPECIAL BASIS.

These "contract programs," voluntarily signed by about 75 per cent of the country's industry, control prices on a give-and-take basis. Under them a firm may get government permission to raise the price of one of its items for sale, provided the price of another is cut. This assures equilibrium with elasticity.

With a contract program, a firm is likely to fall under some third, all contract program firms must pass down to the consumers all savings resulting from the recent abrogation of the professional sector which of the value-added taxes.

These two measures were designed to cheapen goods made for export but tax them more on the home market. The government obviously feared management would pocket the difference and continue to sell abroad at the same price.

The rule says the price must drop by exactly the same amount as the cost saving, otherwise the prices would be blocked and the firm would be the object of "individual measures."

These reports said the agreement was reached under Soviet pressure. The stipulation they will leave the country once the war games are completed.

With Soviet troops moving along its borders — there had been persistent reports at the time of strong red troop concentrations on Romanian borders — strongman Ceausescu evidently realized the acute danger to the independence of his country.

Marshal Ivan Yakubovskiy, the pact's supreme commander.

BRUSSELS (UPI) — France since the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia, one of the experts said.

He also said the experts found that reports NATO was caught militarily asleep by the Russian invasion were exaggerated.

Most of the confusion was at national political level not on the international military level, he said.

It was noted the French are co-operating in watching Soviet warships in the Mediterranean.

"We came away with the impression that France is without actually being part of NATO force.

'Labor Hasn't Weakened'

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson was accused Friday of being "naive" in thinking labor's stand against controversial Bill 33 has been weakened.

Victoria Labor Council Secretary Larry Ryan said Mr. Peterson "is on the wrong track when he suggests opposition to the mediation commission will fail because of the defection of a few labor leaders to the commission's ranks."

Some time ago Pen Baskin, the man the United Steelworkers considered their "ace negotiator" in B.C., accepted appointment to the three-man commission at an annual salary of $40,000.

His appointment came at a time when organized labor in B.C. was bitterly launching its attack against formation of the commission.

The commission, formed under Bill 33, will have the power to carry out compulsory arbitration.

More recently, Ed Sims, Canadian director of the Brewery Workers, and Charles Stewart, vice-president of the B.C. Federation of Labor, accepted jobs with the communission. Mr. Sims was president of the Vancouver Labor Council.

Mr. Peterson was reported to have said in a Vancouver interview that this move by three labor leaders was disarming those launching the campaign against the commission.

Mr. Ryan said the policy established by the unions of B.C. "will stand despite the defections."

He said the legislation is "at variance with the principle of free labor."

"The surprise is to see former respected labor officials willing to become part of the authoritarian bureaucracy the government has created," he said.

Only Soil Taint in B.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Ross Chapman, chief of the federal food and drug directorate, said Friday the only area of Canada where significant soil contamination from pesticides has been found was around Grand Forks. Dr. Chapman said the detection was made by the director-residues, selecting samples which for some reason might contain excessive residues.

Dr. Chapman said the pesticide used in Grand Forks was a type of chlorinated hydrocarbon — a stable compound that remains in the soil for a long time. The residue turned up in routine tests of dairy products, and the products were taken off the market.

Ottawa, B.C. Joining For Study of Water

Resources Minister Ray Williston indicated Friday B.C. and Ottawa will jointly undertake a comprehensive study of water resources in the Okanagan.

Mr. Williston said tentative agreement was reached in recent discussions with federal Energy Minister J. J. Greene and further negotiations are now under way on scope, terms of reference and means of undertaking the investigations.

Objectives of the study would be to improve both the quantity and quality of water in this dry interior region, he said. Increased irrigation on requirements by the fruit growing industry, along with a growing tourist trade, have placed heavy and urgent demands on the Okanagan's scarce water resources.

Tips You Off

Keep your eye on the bluebird. I just got off a charter flight. The cheap charter is one of the best kept secrets from the traveller — for reasons both hilarious and infuriating.

Airlines simply won't tell you (or me) the names of groups who charter. The charter passenger pays about a third of what it costs the poor Joe who walks in and buys a ticket. (Same plane. Same crew. Same destination.)

The tricky limitation is the group must be formed for ANY purpose EXCEPT travel. So you find groups who have developed a passionate interest in stamp collecting. Photography. Bird watching.

The airlines won't tell me who they are. I might print it. The airlines could be accused of conspiring to help a group get members who just want to travel. Instead of going to Europe to look for bluebirds.

However, nothing escapes the Mod Squad. In short time we shall print some bird watchers you can join. Meanwhile, phone some of the art associations. Language clubs. Fraternal groups.

"... how to fly the cheapest way to Europe?"

Now is the silly season of off-season fares. (There are 12 different "fares" across the Atlantic.) Ask a travel agent for the cheapest. Excursion fare. (Limited time, about three weeks.)

inclusive fare tour. (Means 15 other people going the same place travel on the same plane. Though you don't know them. You also pay for a small amount of hotels or rent cars.)

This makes it a "tour." Hence, eligible for tour fare.

Couple of good ones I saw recently were with Alitalia and Lufthansa. ALL the airlines have a different package on these "tours." The overall price is the same. But the extras you must buy are different. So shop around.

Warm Welcome For Canada

KINGSTON, Ont. "Canada may at some time decide to become a full participant in the shaping of inter-American policies," Plaza said.

In England and Ireland, locals don't use out 15 per cent rule-of-thumb tipping. They go for 12 per cent. On the Continent, 15 per cent is also added to your hotel bill. And English hotels are beginning to do this, too.

Maid and floor porters on the Continent still expect a little extra over the service charge.

But in England and Ireland, they don't. Or they aren't so obvious about it.

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Friday announced a sweeping reorganization of the nation's police system to strengthen "law and order."

A statement from the Communist party central committee and the council of ministers announced revival of the ministry of the interior which had been abolished in 1960 by former Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

ALL LEVELS

The measures included steps for increased party influence in the police forces at all levels and appearance to indicate increased central control of Soviet police bodies.

The new reform also envisaged better pay and working conditions for policemen, more technical equipment, higher education standards, and an improved public image.

STILL UNCLEAR

Significance of the reversion to the "Ministry of the Interior" title, dropped by Khrushchev presumably because of its Stalinist connotations, was not immediately clear.

Friday's reorganization announced only that the previous title, ministry of public order, "does not reflect all the functions the security forces carry out."

YEARS AGO

The statement said the party and government had outlined measures some years ago for strengthening the law against criminals, and indicated they were not satisfied with the results.

"The interests of Communist construction," the statement said, "call for further attention on the part of the party, government and public organizations and administrative agencies to questions of strengthening law and order."

LACK OF CONTACT

It criticized the People's Militia — as the police forces are called in the Soviet Union — for lack of close contact with "broad sections of the working population."

Key steps advocated by the party and government included:

- Intensified control by the party organizations at all levels over police work, particularly to increase its role in "fulfillment of the decisions of the party and government on intensifying the struggle against crime."

- A strong injection of loyal communists, "well trained and literate," into police ranks. Local party organizations will have veto rights over appointment of divisional police officers.

- More public appearances by police at meetings in factories, offices and housing projects to explain their work and answer questions.

- More attention by local and national governments to the "economic, cultural and everyday requirements" of the police.

- A widespread publicity campaign to promote the prestige of the police, as well as intensified "political education" work with military personnel" by party and government organs.

Sources said it appeared unlikely the state security organization, the KGB, secret police, would be affected by the changes. The KGB operates independently of the regular police forces.

Multi-Nation Rocket Fails

WOOMERA, Australia (Reuters) — The launching of a European space satellite was stalled off after five abortive attempts to get the multi-national carrier rocket off its desert pad.

The rocket — comprising a British Blue Streak main booster coupled to German and French second and third stages — was to have boosted an Italian test satellite into orbit.

To try to head off further agitation of this type, Rumor and the Christian Democratic leadership have drawn up a proposed program for the new government calling for sweeping educational and government reforms, higher old-age pensions, and an economic policy aimed at overcoming imbalances between the wealthy north and poor south.

Thousands of students in Rome technical and professional institutes are scheduled to boycott classes and stage demonstrations Tuesday in a demand for classroom reforms.

The nation's three biggest unions have called a general strike for Thursday in Rome and nearby cities of Verbo, Latina and Frosinone to press demands for higher pensions, more schools and public housing and other measures.

Adventists Offer Aid

Victoria Seventh-day Adventists will join with fellow members around the world to give a special relief offering today for war victims in East Nigeria, a church spokesman said here Friday.

An advance of $50,000 already has been sent to the famine areas of Biafra, making a total of $100,000 given by the church to date for this purpose.

DEPART GIVEN

The action was decided upon after a firsthand report was given by Dr. Sherman Nagel at the church's biennial council in Toronto. Dr. Nagel, a veteran of 22 years of medical work in Africa, returned last month.

He told the church's top 300 officials that, quite apart from the tremendous need for food, East Nigerians have suffered immense material deprivations.

Many of them have only the rags they wear after fleeing from their homes and travelling many miles on foot before the advancing armies, the doctor said.

"Their needs are staggering,"

Witnesses to Convene For Bible Education

More than 1,000 Jehovah's Witnesses, representing 13 congregations between Ladysmith and Victoria, will hold a convention in S. J. Willis Junior High School Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The theme of the convention will be Sharing Fully, Preaching the News.

"It is designed to increase appreciation of the Bible and will concentrate on Bible education," said Thomas Fisher, public relations officer Friday.

Demonstrations will illustrate the way in which Jehovah's Witnesses conduct home Bible studies with interested persons, he said. Many of the basic doctrines taught by the Witnesses will be discussed and the importance of Bible prophecy to man kind today will be explained.

Laurier Saumur, B.C. district representative of Jehovah's Witnesses will give an hour-long discourse titled God's Way is Love at 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 8. The previous day, Saturday

Saumur

Dec. 7, there will be a water-immersion service of baptism in the afternoon at Fairfield Kingdom Hall on Joan Crescent.

The convention will begin at 6:45 p.m. Friday with Bible instruction.

Mr. Saumur's wife Yvette will accompany him to Victoria. The couple, in 19 years of married life, have never lived in one spot for any longer than a few weeks.

They have spent their time, since leaving their native Quebec, visiting congregations and smaller conventions of Witnesses, primarily in Quebec, briefly in the Maritimes and Ontario, and now in B.C.

Mrs. Saumur has taught French to English-speaking persons at the Watch Tower School of Gilead in New York, as well as to groups of ministers moving into Quebec.

The Saumurs will spend two weeks in Victoria before moving on to another assembly location in the province.

Preparing for Christmas

Trimmer Waist or Soul?

Rev. W. J. Boland, Roman Catholic base chaplain at Maritime Command Pacific, gives his thoughts on Advent in the following article:

The calendar year 1968 draws to a close and as it does our thoughts again focus on one of the greatest days in the year, the feast of Christmas.

Weeks ahead of time the business world starts to prepare for Christmas as toys and trinkets are put on display.

Communities, families and individuals make plans to decorate and to celebrate. Homes and stores, and even streets, are decked out in gaily colored tinsel and twinkling lights. A certain air of excitement takes over the community.

The church, too, is caught up in this excitement although this may seem a strange way to express it. Christmas is primarily a religious festival.

The church was celebrating this feast for centuries before the commercial world even became interested.

The word itself is a combination of two words: Christ and Mass. In the first two centuries of Christianity, Easter was the only feast celebrated. But then in the third century there arose what has been called "a wish to celebrate Christ's birthday."

The birth of Jesus is a fact in history but the exact date is unknown. Maybe this was fortunate because it allowed people to choose an appropriate date.

Jesus was, as He said Himself, "light shining in darkness." For Christians living in the then known world, it was meaningful indeed to associate His coming with the time of year when the long nights are just beginning to shorten.

A new brightness appears in nature, so what better time to celebrate the appearance of the new brightness in the lives of men. In the pagan world of ancient Rome, Dec. 25 was the festival of the rebirth of the sun.

The sun, source of natural light and life, was a perfect symbol for the true source of all light and life. What better day was there than Dec. 25?

Along with the development of festivals, there are also the practices of preparing, by means of penance and that means fast and abstinence. Lent was already in existence as a long fast in preparation for Easter.

By the sixth century it was customary in Gaul (France) it was customary to fast three days a week — Monday, Wednesday and Friday, for six weeks before Christmas.

By the sixth century it was the custom of fasting in Advent was discarded. However, Advent still remains a time of spiritual preparation for Christmas. It is a season for penance, but the form that it takes is left to the individual conscience.

We hear a great deal about the necessity for physical fitness. There is a similar need, yes, an even greater need for spiritual fitness. For maximum efficiency, the body and the mind have to be conditioned. The same reasoning applies to the soul. Man is body and soul.

The enthusiasm, the drive,

the energy put forth by those

striving for physical fitness

sometimes put to shame those striving for spiritual fitness.

Likewise, the commercial world can shame the religious world by the enthusiasm and energy put forth in preparing for Christmas. Why is it that even in a Christian home children know more about Santa Claus than they do about Christ?

For many, this time of Advent is filled with thoughts of "What am I going to get for Christmas?" when really the thoughts should be "What am I going to give?"

The enthusiasm, the drive,

the energy put forth by those

striving for physical fitness

sometimes put to shame those striving for spiritual fitness.

By all means let us get excitement, but not blinded by the twinkling lights. Christ-

for Christmas. Why is it that even in a Christian home children know more about Santa Claus than they do about Christ?

In December, 1968, instead of focusing our attention on tinsel and trinkets, why not try to find out what is really behind it all?

Advent Rites
For Sunday

Advent Sunday will be observed tomorrow in many Victoria churches—for example, at St. Matthias' Anglican Church, a special carol service is planned for 4 p.m.

"In the old liturgies of the church the Advent offices made a vivid preparation for the coming of our Lord and the Advent carol service is planned with this thought in mind," said Canon Jack Rogers, rector of St. Matthias.

"It will include some of the promises of the prophets of the Old Testament as they looked forward to the coming of a Messiah. That will be expressed through scripture reading and song leading up to the great Advent hymn of prayer, 'O Come, O Come, Emmanuel.'

The beginning of the coming of Christ will be expressed in Mary's great song of dedication, The Magnificat, followed by the lighting of the Advent wreath.

LIGHT FROM ALTAR

The wreath symbolizes man's development from darkness to light and also the coming of light into the world through the prophets of old, the word of God, the lives of dedicated persons and the church.

"In the darkness of the church the light will be brought from the altar to the candles that are on the wreath," Canon Rogers said. "And each is lighted in turn to show the coming of light and its fulfillment in the birth of Christ."

Special advent music will be under the direction and leadership of Eric Edwards, choirmaster and organist.

Franciscan
Soon
Leaving

The last chance to meet Brother Geoffrey, guardian of the Franciscans in New Guinea, and hear about his work, will be after Evensong in St. Barnabas Church Hall, Beaufort at Belmont, Sunday evening.

The service takes place at 7:30 p.m. and the congregation will meet Brother Geoffrey from 8:15 p.m.

Sunday morning he will preach in St. John's Anglican Church at 9:30 and 11 a.m. This morning and afternoon he will hold a quiet day at St. Barnabas Church, starting with communion at 8 a.m. and ending with supper at 5:30 p.m.

Youth Project Church First

By DON GAIN

An imaginative extension of the Christian ministry is being made in Victoria with the appointment of Rev. Walter Donald, deacon of Christ Church Cathedral, as youth community co-ordinator for radio station CFAK.

"It's not only a first in Canada, it is precisely the direction in which the church ought to be moving at this time," said Roy Bonisteel from Toronto on hearing of the appointment.

Mr. Bonisteel is the director of broadcasting for the Anglican, Roman Catholic and United Churches in Canada.

Early Man Saw World

Was prehistoric man only a brutal, club-wielding m o r o n or did he already possess a deep and often subtle sense of religion?

This was the question discussed at a public meeting at Gordon Head United Church Wednesday night in a study of the great religions of the world.

The study group is sponsored by Cordova Bay and Gordon Head United Churches.

"I'm most enthusiastic about it," said Dean Brian Whitlow of the cathedral. "It's a thoroughly good and imaginative extension of his ministry."

"He's going to be based in the on-going parochial life of the cathedral. He will continue to be a member of church committee and will be just as much in the parish as he is now. He will assist at family eucharist every Sunday and will continue with the cathedral youth club he has been running."

ON PAYROLL

Clare Copeland, president of CFAK, said Father Donald will be working in and with the community on various projects, particularly with youth, but will be on the payroll of the radio station.

"There's just so much we can do in working at arm's length," Mr. Copeland said.

"We want to get really involved, particularly with youth, in the day-by-day things that are happening. This means we have to communicate with them. It's time we started doing something with them, not for them."

FULL TIME

He said Father Donald will be working as a full-time person who understands them, their problems and their projects and can aid them in their activities.

He will also act in the role of a community public relations officer in supplying other news media with news of the church, youth and the community.

★★★

Father Donald, who starts his new job Jan. 1, said Friday he had hoped ever since graduation from theological college he would be able to enter into a worker-priest role.

The discussion will continue at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, this time in Cordova Bay United Church, 5166 Cordova Bay, and will deal with Hinduism.

Sex Lecture
Lawyer
Pleads
Fifth

LONDON (AP) — Sir Dingle Foot, a distinguished British lawyer and politician, admitted he put his foot in his mouth Friday by inadvertently giving judges a lecture on their sex lives.

Foot, former legal adviser to Prime Minister Wilson, quoted the fifth chapter of St. Paul's epistles to the Corinthians before a church congregation judges and their wives.

He will also act in the role of a community public relations officer in supplying other news media with news of the church, youth and the community.

★★★

Sir Dingle said later he intended to read from the first chapter of St. Paul's epistles, but by the time he realized he was on the wrong track "it was too late."

The scripture reading occurred at a chapel in Gray's Inn, where many lawyers and judges live and work.

MOSCOW (AP)—A poll taken in the large industrial city of Gorky by the Young Communist League magazine showed that 60 per cent of the babies were baptised despite a half-century of official atheism in the Soviet Union.

Of the parents polled, 20 per cent belonged to the Young Communist League, whose members are supposed to be militant supporters of official doctrine.

Human Rights Bow
Taken by Canada

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — A Roman Catholic nun reported with some pride Friday on the accomplishments of Canada in the field of human rights and then went on to criticize events and situations behind the Iron Curtain and in the Middle East.

Mme. Ghislaine Roquet of Montreal, speaking for Canada before the 128-country model human rights and cultural committee, said her country hopes for unity in diversity at home and around the world.

Mme. Roquet gave a long list of accomplishments by Canada and its provinces during the last 20 years. But she said the most significant was the proposal at the February federal-provincial conference that a bill of rights be incorporated into the constitution.

Among specific achievements she mentioned were: Creation of human rights commissions in Saskatchewan, Ontario and Nova Scotia; appointment of an ombudsman in Alberta and Newfoundland, with another such appointment expected in Quebec.

RIGHTS ANNIVERSARY

The committee is discussing the International Year for Human Rights which ends Dec. 31. The year marks the 20th anniversary Dec. 10 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights by the General Assembly.

Canada is co-sponsor of a resolution before the committee which urges all nations to ensure human rights fully as recommended at the international conference of human rights in Tehran, Iran, earlier this year.

That conference, among many other things, appealed for guaranteed freedom and dignity for all, and condemned racial discrimination.

DOMINATION DECRUED

Mme. Roquet said the invasion of Czechoslovakia was "nothing more than the assertion of a proprietary right of a great power to exercise domination over Eastern Europe under the guise of a 'fraternal' ideological relationship."

The invasion was a breach of the international law against interference in the internal or external affairs of another country.

"This concerted action was a flagrant violation of fundamental human rights and liberties."

JEWISH PROBLEM

She mentioned the continuing tension and sporadic violence between Israel and her Arab neighbors. She saw in it the seeds of future conflict and said the situation of more than 1,000,000 Palestinian refugees was precarious. Canada recognized that any solution of the problem of these refugees must be in the context of a peaceful settlement between the Israelis and Arabs.

Canada also was concerned with the lot of the Jewish minority in Eastern Europe and hoped that "an end will be put to this

Licences Lifted After Midnight

The new mandatory suspension of drivers' licences on first conviction for impaired driving will come into effect throughout B.C. at midnight tonight, Attorney General Leslie Peterson announced Friday.

He announced earlier this week that the motor vehicle branch had been requested to establish the new policy of mandatory suspension for a minimum period of one month.

* * *

Mr. Peterson emphasized this would be a complete suspension which would not allow the person to drive for business purposes only or to drive during certain hours of the day.

The one month suspension could be followed, he added, by a further suspension under the motor vehicle branch driver improvement program in cases where a review of the driving record indicates previous driving infractions.

* * *

Mr. Peterson said, "all citizens should resolve for themselves that they would no more drive after drinking excessively than they would commit a serious crime and if they do drive under these circumstances they should be prepared to accept the consequences of their illegal act."

'Brazen Boy' Jailed, Fined

The shoplifting antics of a 19-year-old student from Hong Kong were described by Magistrate William Ostler in Central Magistrate's Court Friday as "brazen and inexcusable offences by a boy who has been over indulged."

He said Stephen Chu Kin Sum, 1401 Hamilton, had been sent here three months ago for education by parents who — in the words of a probation officer — "flooded you with clothes, books and other things."

LOT OF DOING

"The recommendation of the probation officer is extremely charitable," the magistrate said. "It takes a lot of doing for me to accept it."

The probation officer had recommended against a stiff jail term on the grounds that it might destroy the youth's future and lead to his deportation.

FOR YEAR

Chu was placed on suspended sentence and probation for a year for stealing seven sweaters and a shirt from Woodward's. He was sentenced to one day in jail and a fine of $500 or an additional month for having possession of a stolen sweater and coat from The Bay.

Magistrate Ostler said the youth was an "extremely privileged young man" who had no need to steal.

V. C. Hatlen of Prince George, who passed 10 bad cheques during a 10-day period this month, was sentenced to three months in jail after Magistrate Ostler told him:

"I feel mercifully disposed toward you and your family. I have sympathy for anyone with alcoholism. I hope you can re-establish a life for yourself and your family."

Fund to Fight Sentences Won

By NANCY BROWN

An attempt to short circuit the route to Brannan Lake detention school will start in Victoria next spring, says Gordon Wright, director of the Family and Children's Service.

He said Friday that provincial government approval has been received for a new receiving home in Victoria where assessment can be made of children awaiting sentence in Juvenile Court.

Cost of operation of the new home, which will serve 15 children at a time, will be about $80,000 for the first 12 months, said Mr. Wright.

"We need to participate in more effective assessment and planning for children brought before Juvenile Court," he said. We are concerned about the lack of adequate facilities in Victoria."

TWO AT PRESENT

At present there are two small receiving homes in the city. One serves up to six children, usually the very young, while another serves up to six older children.

Children brought before the court under the Juvenile Delinquents Act are usually housed in the Juvenile Detention Home, while awaiting sentence.

"We've wanted this for some time," said Mr. Wright.

"All too often children have wants to deal in 'positive' cannot manage five other children sent to Brannan Lake for rehabilitation, and it can't do it. There is no alternative, or this without some plan being made, because there has been no work done for the child."

Mr. Wright said the present needs or the possibilities of the receiving homes, as well as the placement of a child in a foster home.

"The Juvenile Court doesn't want to deal in punishment. It's a child in one of them then they want to deal in 'positive' cannot manage five other children sent to Brannan Lake for rehabilitation, and it can't do it. There is no alternative, or this without some plan being made, because there has been no work done for the child."

Mr. Wright said the present needs or the possibilities of the receiving homes, as well as the placement of a child in a foster home.

"As a result, we continue to reap the results of children placed prematurely without adequate study of their personal and family situations."

NEUTRALIZING PLAN

Mr. Wright said the aim of the receiving home is to neutralize previous relationship between the child and adults, leaving the child free to form a sound relationship with future parents.

The new program will deal with children coming into care under the Protection of Children Act — both single children and family units.

It will also provide accommodation for children who need a new foster home or group home care, and those transient children on their way home.

NOT DETENTION

Children can remain before Juvenile Court, who need accommodation other than their own homes, but not detention will be cared for by a staff of nine child welfare workers and aides, who will look after the home as well as programs, giving the children complete 24-hour care and assessment.

Lawmen Laugh When Teacher Loses

By DON GAIN

The magistrate looked down from the bench. "Guilty, as charged," he said.

A group of men in the courtroom burst into laughter. Some applauded, some emitted cries that sounded like "Yippee."

The scene was the former Saanich courtroom in the police building and the men were members of Saanich and Central Saanich police departments. They had just completed the final stage of an intensive two-week course.

They had just watched Insp. John Post, director of the course, make an impassioned plea, in his role as defence counsel, for a man charged with careless driving.

The magistrate had rested from the courtroom and when he came back, he gave his verdict of guilty.

The magistrate was Sgt. Charles Trueit. The prosecuting attorney was Insp.

Harry Adams. The court reporter was himself, Tom Nisbet.

Constables took the part of the accused and investigating policemen. It was the second mock trial in a week.

"Oh well," said Insp. Post after it was over. "Win one, lose one."

He won acquittal for a charge of failing to yield the right-of-way.

There was no levity during the trials.

"It was all very real," said Insp. Post. "And we could tell the men had learned a lot since the previous mock trial."

He said he was sure they had absorbed a great deal and that they would have more confidence in themselves going out on the road.

The course is a first for Saanich and was designed as an effective substitute for taking a training course at the

Payments Quadrupled

Welfare Office For Oak Bay?

Welfare payments in Oak Bay have quadrupled in the last two years, and the municipality is considering setting up its own welfare department, says Ald. Frances Elford.

If the present pattern continues, she added Friday, cost to Oak Bay taxpayers will be the equivalent of one mill in welfare costs.

"We've had an increase of about 50 per cent in the number of people receiving welfare here, and I feel we could rehabilitate more of them if we had our own office and workers," she said.

Mrs. Elford said in Sept. 1966 that $1,550 was paid in welfare in Oak Bay, and the figure rose to $3,270 in Sept. 1967 and $6,000 in Sept. 1968.

"Part of this increase is accounted for by the increased amount being paid to people on welfare, but partly it is the increasing number of people here receiving the monthly cheques," she said.

Mrs. Elford said in 1967 when the municipality was contributing 10 per cent to welfare costs, Oak Bay paid $35,000.

Since April municipalities have been paying 20 per cent of welfare costs, and Oak Bay has paid about $153,000 so far this year.

"If things continue at the present rate, next year we shall pay $194,000, or about one mill," said Mrs. Elford.

Mrs. Elford recommended during the last budget discussion that council should set up its own welfare office, but the idea was defeated, mainly because of lack of information.

Mrs. Elford, with the support of Ald. Douglas Watts, will bring the question before council again in the new year.

"I really feel that if we have our own office we can see that our people receive proper counselling," she said.

"We may find, too, that there are facilities we can set up in Oak Bay to help these people become independent.

For instance there may be need for a day care centre to free women with children to complete their education or to take a job which will make life easier for her and her children.

"I think I have enough information to convince council of the need now — it's not just a dollar and cents affair, but one of human need and values."

Convention Centre

Two Opposing Burden on City

By DESMOND BILL

Only two Victoria aldermen candidates are flatly opposed to the city paying the cost of construction of a convention centre at the Empress Hotel.

This appears from answers given by all candidates to a questionnaire on election issues prepared by the Association of Women Electors.

The two candidates are Eric Charman and Tom Christie.

REGIONAL BASIS

Both said in their answers that, if a convention centre is desirable, it must benefit the entire capital region and therefore should be financed on a regional basis.

The Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on West Saanich Road will be open for the final public session until next April from 8 to 10 p.m. today.

Society Offers Goodie Box

Take Over University U.S. Speaker Urges

By LYNNE WALLER

"Take over a building. No, one building isn't enough — take over a whole university," a San Diego English professor told University of Victoria students Friday.

Jerry Farber of San Diego State College and author of the controversial essay The Student as Nigger, which charges that students have no voice in their own education, told his UVic audience of about 500 that this is a way to get a real university.

He said there are charges direct action of this type alienates the community but pointed out it does not so much create a situation as uncover a problem that exists.

"Society offers a whole goodie box to you — all you have to do is be a nigger for another four years," the professor said.

Farber at UVic

He denounced what he called the "master-slave" approach to education and said "Education is something you have to make. It is not something people do for you."

His ideal school would be an autonomous, participatory democracy. If it's expensive, he said, "then the society would have to pay but they shouldn't have any control."

He advocated an end to "coercion" in schools, that is, the coercion of grades and prerequisite courses.

"I don't think the schools we have are set up to handle real people, and apathetic students just reinforce the incapacities of teachers."

He urged students to "turn your teachers on. Whatever that means to you, do it to your teachers."

Mr. Charman said it would be unwise for city taxpayers to be responsible for the centre "when it is proposed to look it in to the hotel facilities of a private corporation."

The two aldermen seeking re-election, Percy Frampton and Cecil Parrott, both indicated they are in favor of the site at the Empress.

Mr. Frampton stated that, if the voters in a referendum approve the city investment in the centre, "the cost could then be spread over 20 years or more and the present taxpayers would not be paying the full shot."

Mr. Parrott said the CPR proposal "is a good one" but he did not think it should be financed by the city entirely.

One of the other two candidates, Harold Olson, said the city should use the funds remaining in the McPherson legacy to build the centre.

Charman — Would be guided by the opinion of the experts in an attempt to achieve the minimum of pollution.

Christie — Favors disposal at sea if the extension of the outfall would eliminate pollution of beaches.

Frampton — Favors extending outfalls since experts assure this is sufficient guarantee there will not be pollution.

Olson — Wants treatment of sewage at outfalls into slack water.

Parrott — Wants disposal handled "according to public health requirements."

Witt — Favors use of whatever means necessary to avoid pollution "at the lowest cost possible."

Police Arrest Suspect

Police have arrested a suspect and impounded a car following a hit and run accident at 8:05 p.m. Friday when an elderly man was knocked down by a car which fled the scene at Interurban and Kinsella.

Charles Hill, 73, of 4139 Gillie, is in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital with head cuts and a possible fractured leg.

Saanich police did not identify the man arrested but said that he was charged with failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

A witness to the accident, Ray Mahaffy, 17, of 1176 Dunsterville, said Mr. Hill never lost consciousness during the wait for the ambulance.

In a head-on crash at Cook and Maplewood, shortly before midnight Kathleen Ten Have, 24, of 4175 Interurban, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital. Victoria police said she received a head laceration but was not believed to be in serious condition.

Police Academy in Vancouver

Seven Saanich constables and one from Central Saanich took part. All except one had about three months service.

Insp. Post lectured the men on the Motor Vehicles Act and the Criminal Code. Insp. Adams showed them in on the Juvenile Delinquents Act. Det.-Sgt. Robin Stewart gave them pointers on the detective branch. Sgt. Trueit detailed the handling of evidence.

Sgt. Fred Brodersen told them how to investigate motor vehicle accidents. Sgt. Ted Owens discussed the Mental Health and Coroners' Acts. Sgt. Herbert Clarke demonstrated firearms, explosives and scientific aids.

Sgt. Bill Osholm taught traffic safety. Const. Jim White explained how to handle police dogs.

One whole day was taken up with a drug seminar. It was open to all departments and other municipal police. It was put on by RCMP Sgt. Lloyd Smith of Vancouver.

The mock trials grew out of one simulated accident. One was at Ralph and Lancaster at 11:30 a.m. Nov. 21 and the other at Cloverdale and Benthum at 9 a.m. Thursday. In case anybody saw them, and wondered, there were no injuries.

Constables taking part were Al Hickman, John Archer, Graham Mitchell, John Fashay, Harry Jones, Brian Perry and Tony Shaw of Saanich and Peter Martin of Central Saanich.

Full Gospel Auxiliary

I hadn't even heard of the Full Gospel Businessmen International Auxiliary when I received an invitation to attend its luncheon at the Century Inn. Hadn't a clue what to expect.

This new non-denominational group has already had six meetings and are ready to become permanently organized. Tuesday members will meet for coffee at the Century Inn to choose a slate of officers.

Madge Scott has been acting chairman during the pre-organization period.

This auxiliary has to main objectives — fellowship as the name implies, the making of new friends and sharing of experiences. The second is to hear speakers give testimony of their own lives. Helen Odell was the speaker the other day.

The auxiliary also hopes in future to have small prayer groups meeting in private homes.

Mrs. J. Vickers, who was there with Mrs. Denbigh Baylis, sat next to me and as she had been at several previous meetings was able to tell me what had happened before.

On the other side was Ella Isdahl who came here originally from Norway and Vera Millard, out from Germany nearly 20 years.

Project Headstart Talk

Mrs. Norma Mickelson and Dr. C. Galloway University of Victoria faculty members told about Project Headstart at the recent meeting of the Victoria Branch of the Association for Childhood Education International.

Project Headstart was conducted for Indian children from the Saanich Reserve last summer. The talks were accompanied by pictures shown on TV with co-ordinated sound track.

The meeting which was held at the Beach Drive home of Peggy Bell was combined with a party for Ulah Jacobson, a charter member of the group, whose marriage to R. M. Watson of Vancouver takes place next month. She was given a hand crochet lace table cloth.

Others at the party were Mrs. R. Andrews, Mrs. R. O. Beavell, Mrs. J. Ellington, Mrs. I. Flett, Mrs. J. A. Krock, Mrs. A. H. Lyncham, Mrs. Betty Scott, Mrs. G. W. ## Yanks Careless

Loss of Cash
In Billions

NEW YORK (Reuters) — Millions of Americans are losing cash at the rate of $2,000,000,000 a year, mostly through carelessness, says a nationwide survey.

The study, to find out how, when, why and how much currency and coin is misplaced, accidentally destroyed, stolen or otherwise lost, said "twice as many women as men lose cash."

The researchers also discovered that young people lost more than their elders and that university-educated adults were more "loss-prone" than those with high school educations or less.

"Half the time, people losing money don't know how it happened," the survey said.

The survey, conducted by Opinion Research Corp. of Princeton, N.J., at the request of American Express, noted that similar surveys found the amount lost in 1965 to be about $1,000,000,000.

The new study said that, despite the popularity of credit cards and talk of "cashless society," Americans now not only had more money but there also were more "cash in hand" around the country.

"Evidently a substantial segment of the public retains the historic 'mattress and money-belt' psychology regarding cash, despite the modern popularization of banking as an institution in American life," said the report.

Lift Before Luncheon Breakthrough

Cut-Rate Face Made from Tiny Tuck

By EUGENIA SHEPPARD

NEW YORK — There are thousands of women in the world who are longing to have their faces lifted. A few may have resigned themselves to their fate because their husbands want them to stay as sweet as they are, but most of them are held back by the high cost of the operation and the time off that is needed to heal the wound.

At least 200 hundred women, though, are already enjoying uplifted faces for only a little more than a tenth of the traditional price and without seeing the inside of a hospital.

The first major breakthrough in bringing face-lifts to the average woman comes from a New York doctor, Jerome Comet Klein. Dr. Klein is already well-known for his facial injections to erase thought lines. For the past five years his East Side office has been a mecca for socialites who drop in for what they call a lift before luncheon.

Up to now the price of a genuine, all-round facelift has been one to two thousand dollars and on up. The operation is done with a general anesthetic and the healing time is three weeks.

Dr. Klein calls his operation a facial tuck. It is done in his office under a local anesthetic. He also refers to it as a 15-minute tuck, but actually the job takes an hour. Afterwards, the patient gets up and goes home.

"I advise them to relax for the rest of the day," says Dr.

Klein, "but one of my patients drove right back to Southampton."

Dr. Klein says he used to do face lifts like everybody else.

"But I was never happy about it," he adds.

In Tokyo one year he was watching a Japanese cosmetic surgeon perform a facelift.

Instead of major incisions, he cut two inches in front of the ear and one inch behind it and covered the suture with a small bandage.

The Japanese doctor was using a general anesthetic, but Dr. Klein believed he could do it with a local, and he did. "We can control the bleeding," he says. He uses a special kind of suture and covers it with a bandage only half an inch wide. The stitches are taken out on the seventh day and, according to Dr. Klein, it must be the seventh and not the sixth or eighth.

Dr. Klein believes he's the first to give an abbreviated facelift successfully. He has been giving it now for eight years "without a single complication."

If he hasn't performed more tucks, it's because he never suggests anything to a patient unless she asks for it. "You never know how a woman sees herself in the mirror.

Something you say may shatter her illusions and cause a psychological crisis. I let her tell me first what's troubling her, just like the woman I just talked to. Her cheek bones are sinking and she wants them to be prominent again."

Dr. Klein's famous facial injections also comes from Japan, but now he tends to recommend them less and less and the 15-minute tuck more.

"I only like to use the injections where surgery isn't possible like thought lines on the forehead. His injections, an oily fat substance, erase the thought lines in no time flat."

ANTWERP (AP) — A 10-year-old Belgian girl gave birth Friday to a child by Caesarean operation, reliable sources reported. Police are investigating to determine who is the father.

During the week it takes to heal, a woman can go right on with her work. She can wear a wig if her hair isn't long enough or just tie a scarf around her head," he says.

The scar, according to Dr. Klein, is almost invisible. Unless someone is looking for it, it is hidden in the little folds of skin around the ear.

He said his specific action is being planned by the nurses and no action will be taken until the government moves on the commission report.

He said proposals for 1969 are for increases in the basic rate to $322 and in the maximum rate to $630 monthly. These proposals compare with the $48 to $542 range psychiatric nurses now get and the $483 to $580 they sought for 1968.

Albert Head

Howitzers To Fire In Games

Seventy gunners of the 5th (B.C.) Field Battery, RCA, will conduct a live shoot from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. today and Sunday at Albert Head.

Battery commander Major A. E. Sherwin is leading the weekend exercise during which four 105-mm howitzers will be fired from land at towed targets in the water off Albert Head.

The weekend scheme is part of the battery's annual training and culminates a busy month which included the firing of a 21-gun salute Monday to welcome Governor-General and Mrs. Roland Michener and a 21-gun salute at the Victoria heliport on Nov. 11 to mark the 50th anniversary of the 1918 Armistice.

Pickup takes seat

Whaling Brief Whim

When Bert Pickup finished his training as stereopterist at the age of 21, he felt the call of the sea but on a voyage on a whaler fixed that he returned to the comparative comfort and safety of a printing office.

And there, in one capacity or another, he remained until this week when he retired, after 45 years service with the Times and Colonist, as superintendent of Victoria Press stereo department.

When he entered apprenticeship in the old Times building on Broad Street he was, at 16, one of the youngest to be taken on.

STILL YOUNGEST

On graduation — five years later he was still one of the youngest journeymen in the business.

And, it was at this point that Bert felt the call of the sea.

At that time the whaling fleet was operating out of Victoria. Bert's parents lived in the James Bay area, near the outer wharf where the whalers made their port, and beckoned silently to the young stereopterist.

He signed onto a whaler.

ROUGH TRIP

On a rough trip up the West Coast, Bert found that he and the sea didn't agree. His appetite suffered so much that it became doubtful as to whether he would survive.

After a few days on the whaling grounds the captain decided to return to the whaling station on the north end of Vancouver Island.

NO MORE

It has not been established whether the return to port was made necessary by repairs to the vessel or the printer-whaler but once he got his feet on the ground Bert dug in and with no remorse abandoned life on the briny.

BIG RAT

Bert was a pretty fair athlete in his youth and once hit the longest fly ball on record at that time. He admits, however, that the bat was loaded. In later years his hobby has been fishing.

A kind and considerate superintendent, Bert was given a warm send-off by his fellow workers at a Friday evening celebration at which he was presented with an easy chair — one in which to contemplate the future.

ABOUTV

with Bruce Louther

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Friday's feverish answer — Comic-book centres of unforgettable status include Superman's Krypton and Metropolis, Batman's Gotham City, Superboy's hometown of Smallville and Baber's Celesteville. Named for the wife, y'know.

Today's question is a dandy for the weekend. For a mid-1950s movie that won eight Oscars, Columbia originally filled the five leading roles with Edmond O'Brien, Joan Crawford, Aldo Ray, Eli Wallach and Julie Harris. Not one was in the movie. Name the film and the five who wound up as the leads. Answers Tuesday.

"For what we are about to receive, with the exception of 'The Dating Game,' we are thankful."

Robbers Caught Quickly

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two men facing habitual criminal proceedings were recaptured within minutes Friday after they bolted from the Vancouver Court House.

Witnesses in the Court House rotunda appeared stunned when the two men, crushed through the front door of the building and down the stone stairs hotly pursued by three city policemen who tackled him on the lower stairs.

AFTER ADJOURNMENT

Both men, Daniel Hadden, 51, and Michael Johnston, 30, were returned to the RCMP lockup at the courthouse.

The break came when Hadden and Johnston were leaving the Court Room 211 following an adjournment in proceedings against them.

Both had been convicted earlier of bank robbery.

As RCMP Constable D. A. McMurray turned to handcuff them, one prisoner took off and the other gave the officer a shove and ran down the hall way.

THROUGH ROTUNDA

Const. McMurray recaptured Johnston after he had gone about 20 feet, but Hadden fled through the rotunda and out of the building.

Three officers raced down the stone stairs after Hadden and piled on top of him. Hadden yelled:

"That's enough. That's enough. I quit."

Target: Better Shows

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Radio-Television Commission will start discussions next spring with Canadian broadcasters on how they can improve the quality of their Canadian programs, commission chairman Pierre Juneau said Thursday.

He told the Commons committee on broadcasting, film and the arts that the commission is burdened now with a backlog of work inherited from its predecessor, the Board of Broadcast Governors.

Juneau said the commission's five members and staff of 180 have been studying the rule that Canadian broadcasters should try to have at least 55 per cent of their program time devoted to Canadian programming.

While mentioning no specific figure at the committee hearing, Juneau said the commission is concerned about the quality of Canadian programs. Quantity of Canadian content is insufficient as a criterion in itself, he said.

Maintenance Workers Delay Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Maintenance men at Simon Fraser University have promised to delay threatened strike action pending a vote on a new offer from the university early next week.

The 90 men, represented by 12 unions, had rejected a compensation board award of eight per cent, across-the-board wage increase.

The university now has offered a two-year contract calling for 8½ per cent increases each year, including some adjustments for the lower paid employees.

The adjustments were the main point of unions' demands to increase the earnings of the lower paid workers by more than the across-the-board offer. Present earnings of the 90 range from $400 to $600 a month.

Mammoth Lawsuit Brings $1 Award

TORONTO (CP) — A bid by Leitch Gold Mines Ltd. to acquire title to one of the world's richest orebodies or $450,000,000 from Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. of New York was dismissed Friday by Chief Justice G. A. Gale, of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Instead, he awarded Leitch, a small Canadian mining company with assets of about one two-hundred of its opponent, nominal damages of $1.

He made this award on grounds that Texas Gulf, which developed the orebody into the Kidd Creek Mine in the Timmins area of Northern Ontario, had breached some contracts it had entered into with Leitch in 1963.

The chief justice ruled, however, that a map attached to an exploration agreement entered into between Texas Gulf and Leitch defined areas to which Texas Gulf had rights, and even if there were ambiguities in the agreement they should be resolved in favor of Texas Gulf.

Leitch had claimed that the map was ambiguous and it had rights to the orebody under the agreement.

Mr. Justice Gale took almost one-quarter of his 41,000-word decision to deal with the question of ambiguity.

He also said the question of whether Leitch should be compensated by Texas Gulf for any loss as a result of these breaches should be referred to the courts.

The judgment, presented more than four hours after major North American stock markets had closed to prevent a reaction in stock prices, climaxed 164 days of trial which ended April 25.

There was immediate word on whether Leitch might appeal the ruling.

Mr. Justice Gale also assessed costs, unofficially estimated at $650,000, against Leitch.

In the background of the trial — believed to be the biggest civil suit ever launched in the world — was a fantastically rich base-metal discovery announced by Texas Gulf in 1964.

Although Leitch launched its suit against Texas Gulf only two months after the discovery an announcement, Texas Gulf went ahead to develop the mine at a cost of more than $70,000,000.

In addition to building facilities to handle the raw ore, it had to clear an average of 20 feet of muskeg from the top of the orebody. It now blasts and carries away more than 8,000 tons of ore a day to be processed into copper, zinc and silver. Several other precious minerals also are recovered, though in minor amounts.

As a sideline, the announcement of the discovery touched off the wildest staking rush, and the craziest speculative demand for stocks of many mining companies, in Canada's history.

Speculation in the shares of Windfall Oils and Mines, which had obtained options on some property near the Texas Gulf discovery, led to an Ontario royal commission in the way speculative stocks are handled.

The rub of the case was whether geographical boundaries of aerial survey limits should determine rights under an exploration agreement signed between Texas Gulf and Leitch in May, 1963.

Leitch was to receive data from a number of aerial surveys flown by Texas Gulf over portions of Northern Ontario and Quebec between 1959 and 1961.

In return, Texas Gulf was to have a 10-per-cent interest in any mine Leitch might bring into production in those portions.

But after Texas Gulf announced discovery of the mine, Leitch claimed the agreement between the companies defined rights to various areas surveyed by air.

Texas Gulf maintained that the agreement defined rights geographically and that a map attached to the agreement correctly set out the areas in which Leitch was entitled to rights, even when the flying of the actual aerial surveys did not correspond exactly to the map boundary lines.

Neither side disputed the geographic location of the orebody. Geographically, it lay in an area to which Leitch had no rights. But Leitch maintained it was in an aerial survey area to which it was entitled to data.

In his reasons for judgment, the chief justice said he was "entirely convinced" that neither Leitch nor Texas Gulf thought the agreement was determined by the aerial survey boundaries at the time they signed it.

"Certainly it was not adopted on the map or in the wording of the agreement."

He said that to define areas by this method "would have been virtually if not completely impossible, and cannot be regarded as having been within the contemplation of the parties."

"I have found there is no patent ambiguity in the contract . . . that it is it must be resolved in favor of the defendant; that there is no equivocation in the contract; and if there is it must be resolved in favor of the defendant."

However, the chief justice did find that Texas Gulf breached other parts of its agreement with Leitch — in withholding some data from an area to which Leitch was entitled to rights and in staking claims and exploring this area. However, he said he was confirming Leitch's damages to $1 for these breaches, because the gold-mining company had failed to show that it actually suffered a loss through these breaches.

Judgment Maker Sick of It

TORONTO (CP) — "I'm sick of it," said Chief Justice G. A. Gale. "If I never hear of it again it will be OK with me."

The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Ontario made the comment in the corridor of the courthouse Friday night after bringing down his judgment in the largest civil action in Canadian history.

The trial lasted 164 days. The judgment ran 167 pages, plus a 10-page appendix.

Port Angeles

Power On Despite Picketing

PORTE ANGELES, Wash. (AP) — Power was restored to a 40-block area of Port Angeles Friday afternoon by employees of the city light department who decided the emergency made it necessary for them to disregard a strike by other city employees.

Power was cut off earlier Friday when a tree fell across power lines. At first the city light employees, members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, made sure the downed lines would not endanger life.

Later it became known there was a fire in one of the homes without power and that small children were suffering in others, the workers restored all power.

The IBEW is not on strike but has been honoring picket lines set up by about 65 employees in the city water, street, engineering and park departments who are striking for higher pay.

SFU Boycott Voted Down

Students Will Stay

Newark Stays In, No Police, Firemen

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — A six-hour curfew went into effect at midnight in this city of 400,000 because of a day-long sick call campaign which kept half the city's police and firemen off their jobs.

The men began returning to work late in the day after the city obtained a court order directing them back to their jobs.

Authority Challenge

Commonwealth Firm Sues Receiver-Boss

VANCOUVER (CP) — A law was issued a writ Friday for damages against A. D. Peter Stanley, court-appointed receiver of the Commonwealth group of companies.

The writ alleges that Mr. Stanley overstepped his authority.

Issued by lawyer Graham McKenzie, the writ claims general damages and repayment of losses claimed by one of the companies because of Mr. Stanley's actions.

Mr. Stanley was appointed receiver and manager of five companies in the Commonwealth group last month at the request of the B.C. Securities Commission.

One of the five was Diversified Income Securities Series A and B, Mr. McKenzie, in his writ, alleged that Mr. Stanley, without authority, extended this to include Diversified Income Securities Ltd.

Mr. McKenzie alleges that Series A and B are merely the assets purchased by trust fund investors, while DIS Ltd. administers A and B but is neither parent company nor owner of the current dispute on campus to education in the world at large.

SYMPATHY BID

The ballot had also called for an expression of sympathy for 114 students facing criminal charges after their arrest last Saturday following a three-day sit-in of the SFU administration building.

While voting was in progress, a teach-in was taking place on the campus.

About 175 teaching assistants held teach-in sessions instead of regular classes throughout the day. The sessions, held in classrooms, generally took the form of informal discussion gatherings covering everything from the current dispute on campus to education in the world at large.

MINISTER PLEASED

In Victoria, Education Minister Donald Brothers said he was pleased to learn that the majority of students wished to continue at the university.

"I don't feel a strike could have settled anything," the minister said. "I'm sure the legitimate complaints of students will be dealt with by the university."

Mr. Brothers was asked whether he regarded the request that authorities drop charges against 114 persons, who took part in a campus sit-in last week as one of the student's legitimate complaints. He replied: "They have been charged before the

Little Girls, Big Hearts Pure Silver

By DON COLLINS

Chances are you wouldn't be excited if someone showed you a stack of dimes and nickels adding up to less than $3.

To be exact, the amount is $2.95 and it is something to get excited about.

For it is more than silver. It is heart. And where do you find more heart than among a group of children who suddenly decide to do something worthwhile for someone else — someone less fortunate?

Such a group is the First Tillicum Brownie Pack which came all the way to The Colonist Friday with $2.95 — no more, no less — to do what it could for the Colonist 500 Fund.

The amount represents the collection the little girls took among themselves because they had heard all about the Greater Victoria families who might not have a very nice Christmas. And they wanted to do something to help out.

They can rest assured their $2.95 will help out — will bring a smile to the face of some child, who may otherwise have faced an empty Christmas Day.

The money turned in by the Brownies, along with all the other donations, is distributed to 500 families selected by the Christmas Bureau.

'Privacy' Short-Lived at the Nicholsons

Chant

The provincial government Friday ordered removal of a sign which proclaimed Government House was a private residence and therefore closed to the public.

Works Minister W. N. Chant said the sign put up and worded at the request of Lt.-Governor John Nicholson is "highly incorrect."

It was removed Friday afternoon shortly after Premier Bennett and others high up in government were made aware of its existence. The sign said: "Private residence of Lieutenant Governor, closed to public."

Asked whether he agreed with the wording of the sign, Mr. Bennett told reporters: "It

'Private' sign on Government House

(government house) is a provincial government building for the official use of the Lieutenant Governor."

The premier refused to answer any further questions, saying he had made a "straightforward comment" on the situation.

A spokesman for the public works department said the sign had apparently been put up since the incumbent arrived.

Mr. Nicholson was not immediately available for comment because he and Mrs. Nicholson are accompanying Governor-General Roland Michener on his tour of the lower Mainland. They are expected to return Wednesday.

Gun Hidden in Sling

An alarm triggered in the bank rang a buzzer in the Chevron service station at the shopping centre and the attendant phoned Saanich police.

City police and the RCMP were called into the investigation led by Saanich Detective Sgt. Robin Stewart.

Adrian Andrew, 43, Michigan, an officer in charge of the bank.

The six-foot, medium built man, his face obscured with bandages, approached bank officer Adrian Andrew at closing time and said, "This is a holdup. I have a gun."

The alarm was turned in about 6:05 p.m. and police had three roadblocks set up within minutes, two on Cordova Bay Road and one on Blenkinsop.

Flesh-Colored Tape

A police officer described the gunman as being of medium build, six feet tall, wearing a light blue cap and olive drab clothes.

His face at the time of the holdup was obscured with flesh-colored tape — either elastoplast or masking tape. He was wearing a brown sling on the right arm.

The last bank holdup in Greater Victoria was on the morning of Friday, Oct. 13 last year when a lone, armed bandit made off with $2,665 from the Bank of Montreal at Fort and Richmond. He was apprehended and charged the same day.

Mrs. Andrew, wife of the bank officer, had not seen her husband by 9:30 p.m. Friday, but said at home she knew what he must have gone through.

"I've been thought it," she said, and explained that she had been held up at a Vancouver Credit Union in 1967. "I'd rather not talk about it," she said.

Mrs. Andrew said her husband had been a barker for five years and had not been involved in a holdup before. Saanich Police used dogs in the search and several detectives came to Seaview Plaza to investigate the robbery. Mr. Andrew was shown police photographs of possible suspects.

Taste of Hell

Chemical Bombs Hit Aussie Fires

From Reuters, AP

SYDNEY, Australia — Light planes dropped experimental chemical bombs Friday on a chain of brush fires racing through ravines in a fashionable suburb 14 miles from the centre of this new South Wales capital.

At least 70 houses, most of them shopping centres and garages in the town of Buxton were destroyed. This has been the worst-hit town to date.

"It was a taste of hell," said one firefighter.

discouraging, promising no let-up in the scorching weather.

Prime Minister John Gorton Friday night announced a $46,000 federal grant to help victims of the fires, which have taken 100 homes and caused damage estimated at upwards of $2,000,000.

Australian authorities called in the planes as firemen and volunteers sought desperately to quell the worst forest fires in the country's history.

The weather forecast was

He placed her on suspended sentence and probation for a year.

of their members of their community. Mr. Jakovickas was termed a hard working man who is being demoted from his senior position at mmill as the result of the crime.

Of the couple, who stood silently side by side before him, Magistrate Ostler said: "They're genuine remorse."

He had been told many of the items stolen were things the couple had been unable to afford.

Full-Time in January

Gold River to Have Doctor

GOLD RIVER — A full-time doctor has been found for Gold River, Mayor Bruce Chisholm announced Friday.

He is Dr. J. F. Jodrey of Nanaimo who will set up practice on a part-time basis in December until January when he plans to move to the town with his wife and two children, said Mayor Chisholm.

"His decision to come arises from the combined efforts of the municipality and Tahsis Co.," said Mayor Chisholm.

Gold River was without a doctor for several months until Dr. Patricia Chen of Campbell River agreed to go to the town on a part-time basis. She has been spending two days a week there.

Pat Costello, chairman of the Kinsmen X-ray fund welcomed the news.

"Perhaps we will be able to greet Dr. Jodrey with new equipment," he said.

Mr. Costello said the fund has collected $2,650 which includes a $1,000 donation from the Tahsis Co. Another $1,000 has been promised by the Nootka Indian Band.

MLA Dr. Howard McDiarmid, who has made a personal donation, is to investigate the possibility of obtaining financial assistance from the provincial government.

NDP House Leader:

Liberals Losing Popularity

NANAIMO — Disenchantment with Trudeauism was at a limit.

"There has been a great deal of disappointment in Mr. Trudeau. He has a pretty conservative non-progressive government," said Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Lewis made the comment during a press conference in Nanaimo where he stopped before going on to Duncan for an NDP banquet which Mr. Douglas also attended.

Mr. Lewis said the main reason for disenchantment was that "Mr. Trudeau is a suspended brain, unattached to the heart, without concern for people and their problems."

"I'd be surprised if Mr. Trudeau's failure to show any progress did not have any effects here."

Mr. Lewis said that Canadians had realized that Mr. Trudeau was extremely conservative as shown by the budget which was very conservative with the acceptance of control their reserves; provision five per cent unemployment and of the same services and the political and social force."

Commenting on the winter review or studying the situation, Mr. Lewis said: "It is rather difficult and arrogant and his arrangements have made it pretty well a one-man show."

Mr. Lewis claimed that Canadian university students and faculty, who formerly strongly supported Mr. Trudeau, were also disenchanted.

"The people of this riding will benefit from this disenchantment."

Mr. Lewis said that Robert Strachan's resignation as provincial NDP leader was a personal choice by a man who had been a good leader and who had done "an excellent job" for the party during his time in office.

He did not think the Conservatives would be a threat.

Cash Urged For Indians

DUNCAN — The federal government should set up a machinery to provide compensation to Canadian Indians for land losses said NDP Leader T. C. Douglas at a Duncan press conference Friday.

Other suggestions from Mr. Douglas were: Restore to Indians as quickly as possible the control of their own affairs; stop patriarchy because the time has come that Indians can remote, but they will be a same rights as other Canadians receive.

Mr. Douglas said a solution was impossible "if we don't give them the same opportunities."

"No doubt the Indian population is becoming more unified and vocal. Unless we meet remedy some of the injustices, we will have an outraged minority of Canada. I think the use of force is extremely remote, but they will be a political and social force."

When he arrived in the health service to health service patients.

"We have to reinforce Dr. Jensen's staff. We hope to have a big public meeting early next year and we hope to get the backing of all agencies in this district."

Dr. Jensen told the meeting that his area stretches from Campbell River to the greater Duncan area. It also includes Port Alberni in the western section.

He said that although the population is more than 100,000, its staff consists of only one psychiatric nurse.

When he arrived in the health unit five years ago, he was promised a psychologist and a psychiatric social worker. The psychologist's position was filled for six months but was vacated after the psychologist was offered a job with Victoria school board which increased his salary by 50 per cent.

Faced with that critical situation, the local branch of the Mental Health Association decided to mobilize councils, serice clubs and other organizations to pressure the province into action.

Robert Moss, director of elementary instruction in the Cowichan school district, said:

"We don't hear about the pollution of the mind and after we have cleared up the pollution in the air and the water, maybe we can start to clear up the

pollution of the mind."

He said there was some

"pollution of the mind"

in schools because of archaic methods. Mistakes in raising children were made by parents and those mistakes might be compounded when the child entered school.

"It is a vicious circle because then we have a disturbed adult who produces disturbed children."

Mr. Boys said the Indians on the reserve were contributing.

On the question of house repairs, he said if an Indian is working, he is expected to make normal maintenance repairs.

However if Indians were unemployed, such as those who are sick or widowed, "we would contribute some help."

Port Alberni NDP

Protest Sought Over Mining

POR ALBERNI—Bud Handley, president of Comox-Alberni NDP constituency association has condemned open-pit mining, planned for the Kootenays by the Kaiser Corp.

Referring to "the tragic mudslide at Natal," which killed two people and "the desecration" of Battle Lake, he said that pit-mining is going ahead despite the advice of experts, scientists and wild life preservationists in B.C.

"The profit to B.C. from this devastation is infinitesimal in comparison to the damage created" Mr. Handley said.

Pit-mining in the Kootenays would render millions of acres of land useless both now and in the future.

"Not only is this a prostitution of our natural resources, spilling the scenic value of B.C., but it is literally giving away millions of jobs for Canadians."

Prizes Given To 4-H

DUNCAN — Case van Jaarsveld, 17, and Isabel Roberts, 18, were the most successful members of Cowichan 4-H Holstein club which held its annual achievement night recently at Tzouhalem Hotel.

Case received the senior achievement trophy and one for the best yearling.

Isabel received two trophies—best senior calf and best animal.

Her Doris, 13, was awarded the junior achievement trophy and Ian Bell, 12, received a trophy for best junior calf.

PRIZE SHARED

Audrey Polman and Doris Roberts shared a $5 prize, donated by Sonoma Women's Institute, for the best record books. Other members were given badges and similar awards by Ken Jameson, Duncan district agriculturist and southern Vancouver Island supervisor.

Margaret Tatman is to receive a show halter donated by Vancouver Island Holstein Association.

Juvenile Hurt In Crash

DUNCAN — A Duncan juvenile who crashed in a stolen car is in good condition at the Cowichan District Hospital with head cuts.

The accident happened about half a mile north of Duncan on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Police said the accident occurred when the boy, after passing and touching a car driven by Sanford Goodine of Duncan, lost control of the car which crashed into a ditch and overturned.

Sentence Imposed

CHEMINUS — Robin Ware, 21, of Nanaimo was sentenced to nine months on each of three charges of possessing marijuana.

The sentences will run concurrently. Ware, who pleaded guilty, was picked up during an RCMP routine check Nov. 3 on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Man Sent For Trial

NANAIMO — William Legrand, 36, of 210 4th Avenue was committed for February's Supreme Court trial Thursday on a charge of non-capital murder of his brother, Donald, 32, at about 8 p.m. Nov. 6.

Study Planned Of Outdoors

VANCOUVER (CP) — The University of British Columbia and the Donner Canadian Foundation has awarded the university $55,000 for research into outdoor space and recreation needs. Part of the planned study will be carried out with the University of Washington.

Man Charged

ALERT BAY — Lawrence James Sommer, 27, was charged with manslaughter in the shooting Monday night of Mrs. Tentil Buera, 50. Police said she was shot at Sommer's home in Scantula, five miles north of Alert Bay.

while they remain unemployed month after month.

"I believe we should all band together and insist that all future mining be governed by rigid legislation that will insist on restoration of land, thus destroyed.

"Let charity begin at home by the creation of a proper steel industry that will not only create jobs but lead to industrial expansion," he suggested.

Mr. Handley said he feared continued mining of that nature would lead to a situation where highways were no longer safe, especially in the rainy season.

He called on members of all political parties, and all those interested in conservation, to protest strongly to the provincial government.

"The profit to B.C. from this devastation is infinitesimal in comparison to the damage created" Mr. Handley said.

Pit-mining in the Kootenays would render millions of acres of land useless both now and in the future.

Newark Kept Home, No Police, Firemen

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — A six-hour curfew went into effect at midnight in this city of 400,000 because of a day-long sick call campaign which kept half the city's police and firemen off their jobs.

The men began returning to work late in the day after the city obtained a court order directing them back to their jobs.

COLONIST 500 FUND

Little Girls, Big Hearts Pure Silver

By DON COLLINS

Chances are you wouldn't be excited if someone showed you a stack of dimes and nickels adding up to less than $3. To be exact, the amount is $2.95 and it is something to get excited about.

For it is more than silver. It is heart. And where do you find more heart than among a group of children who suddenly decide to do something worthwhile for someone else — someone less fortunate?

Such a group is the First Tillicum Brownie Pack which came all the way to The Colonist Friday with $2.95 — no more, no less — to do what it could for the Colonist 500 Fund.

The amount represents the collection the little girls took among themselves because they had heard all about the Greater Victoria families who might not have a very nice Christmas. And they wanted to do something to help out.

They can rest assured their $2.95 will help out — will bring a smile to the face of some child who may otherwise have faced an empty Christmas Day.

The money turned in by the Brownies, along with all the other donations, is distributed to 500 families selected by the Christmas Bureau.

The bureau is an agency of the Community Chest. Donations can be brought or mailed to the Colonist, 2631 Douglas, or left at Avis Rent-a-Car, 800 Douglas. Latest list of donations appears on Page 2.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Students at strife-ridden Simon Fraser University Friday voted down a proposal that they boycott classes in a bid to force changes in the university's administrative practices.

The result was seen as a blow to militant student elements on the campus, which has been the scene of controversy almost from the day it opened in September, 1965.

Student leaders announced the result at a mass meeting of students about two hours after polls closed. The vote was 2,625 to 1,181 against the proposal for a voluntary boycott of classes.

A total of 3,613 students, two-thirds of the enrolment, cast ballots in the vote, which student leaders termed a strike vote. There were four spoiled ballots.

SYMPATHY BID

The ballot had also called for an expression of sympathy for 114 students facing criminal charges after their arrest last Saturday following a three-day sit-in of the SFU administration building.

While voting was in progress, a teach-in was taking place on the campus.

About 175 teaching assistants held teach-in sessions instead of regular classes throughout the day. The sessions, held in classrooms, generally took the form of informal discussion gatherings covering everything from the current dispute on campus to education in the world at large.

MINISTER PLEASED

In Victoria, Education Minister Donald Brothers said he was pleased to learn that the majority of students wished to continue at the university.

"I don't think a strike could have settled anything," the minister said. "I'm sure the legitimate complaints of students will be dealt with by the university."

Mr. Brothers was asked whether he regarded the request that authorities drop charges against 114 persons who took part in a campus sit-in last week as one of the student's legitimate complaints. He replied: "They have been charged before the

Parents in Court, Children Punished

The tragic story of what happens when a respected couple from a small community goes on a shopping spree was told in three words Friday by Magistrate William Oster.

Anguish...fumiliation...embarrassment.

This, he said, would not only be the fate of Alfonso Jakovickas, 43, and his wife, Maria, 40, from Yobou, but of their five children.

"It is too bad parents don't consider these poor children when they embark on these things," Magistrate Oster said in Central Magistrates Court. "What you have really done is to severely punish your children."

He described the actions of the couple as "the wholesale sacking of a department store."

The man and his wife faced two charges each of theft involving close to $400 in a wide variety of items taken from Woodwards and The Bay in Victoria.

Evidence of the thefts was heard last Saturday and Mr. Jakovickas had remained in custody since. As a result of this and because of the anguish he felt was involved, the magistrate decided against a severe jail sentence.

He bound the man over to keep the peace for a year on one charge and sentenced him to one day in jail, plus a fine of $400 or an additional four months on the second count. He allowed him to pay the fine in monthly installments of $25.

Magistrate Oster said he was satisfied Maria Jakovickas was a good mother and obedient wife "under the influence of your husband." He placed her on suspended sentence and probation for a year.

Character witnesses Friday described the couple as respectable members of their community. Mr. Jakovickas was termed a hard working man who is being demoted from his senior position at a mill as the result of the crime.

Of the couple, who stood silently side by side before him, Magistrate Oster said: "There is genuine remorse."

He had been told many of the items stolen were things the couple had been unable to afford.

'Privacy' Short-Lived at the Nicholsons

Chant

The provincial government Friday ordered removal of a sign which proclaimed Government House was a private residence and therefore closed to the public.

Works Minister W. N. Chant said the sign put up and worded at the request of Lt.-Governor John Nicholson is "highly incorrect."

It was removed Friday afternoon shortly after Premier Bennett and others high up in government were made aware of its existence. The sign said: "Private residence of Lieutenant-governor, closed to public."

Asked whether he agreed with the wording of the sign, Mr. Bennett told reporters: "It (Government House) is a provincial government building for the official use of the lieutenant-governor."

The premier refused to answer any further questions, saying he had made a "straightforward comment" on the situation.

A spokesman for the public works department said the sign had apparently been put up since the incumbent arrived.

Mr. Nicholson was not immediately available for comment because he and Mrs. Nicholson are accompanying Governor-General Roland Michener on his tour of the lower Mainland. They are expected to return Wednesday.
